

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Daniel Rose was born on October 31, 1929, attended public school in Mount Vernon, NY, then the Horace Mann School and Yale University. He spent the Korean War years as a military intelligence analyst in the U.S. Air Force.

During a 60 year career at Rose Associates, of which he is Chairman, he developed such projects as the prize-winning Pentagon City complex in Arlington, VA, the One Financial Center office tower in Boston, MA, and, as a consultant, conceived of and implemented the concept of “housing for the performing arts” for New York’s Manhattan Plaza.

Winner of a number of national Cicero speechwriting awards, he has received Honorary Doctorates in Humane Letters from Long Island University; in Engineering from NYU/Polytechnic; and in Science from Technion-Israel Institute of Technology. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He has served as an ‘Expert Advisor’ to the U.S. Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and as an ‘Expert/Consultant’ to the Commissioner of Education, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

A founding member of the NY Institute for the Humanities, he was also founding Chair of the Forum for Urban Design, Chairman of the national Jewish Community Centers Association, Vice Chairman of the East West Institute, Vice Chairman of the Baltic American Enterprise Fund and is Treasurer of the Police Athletic League. He founded and is Chairman Emeritus of the Harlem Educational Activities Fund (www.HEAF.org).

Other honors include the Ernst & Young 'Man of the Year in Real Estate', the NYC Mayor's Award of Honor for Art & Culture and the W.E.B. Du Bois Award from Harvard University.

He serves on multiple corporate and philanthropic boards, has been married for 58 years, has four children and eleven grandchildren.